

AUGUST INSPIRATION

Off-Roading in Moab, Utah

On our 16 day adventure in Colorado and Moab we spent three days in Moab, Utah. The town of Moab is next to Canyonlands National Park and Arches National Park. We spent an entire day off-roading. This loop starting at the Gemini Bridges Trail just outside of Moab, continuing on to the famous Shafer trail which is accessed inside of Canyonlands National Park and finishing on Potash Road was an incredible way to get a 4 wheeling fix and to see some spectacular views along the way. These trails can be done by anyone who is confident driving and doesn't mind heights or driving along the cliff edges of the Shafer trail. This was truly a highlight on our journey and we highly recommend it for those of you looking for something fun and different to do.

“We travel not to escape life but for life not to escape us.”

Shafer Trail

- In 1916 - The Shafer family used the trail that was once used by Indians to move cattle from the canyon to the upper mesa. The Shafer family improved the trail, hence the reason the trail bears their name.
- Today the trail is enjoyed by hundreds of visitors each year.
- Note: Uphill traffic has the right of way!

Zion Shuttles

- In the year 2000 the NPS started the free shuttle service through the Zion Canyon area to address parking and traffic issues. Only shuttles are allowed in the canyon during peak season.
- The Springdale shuttle is also free and allows you to stay in the town center and shuttle directly to the visitors center without worrying about parking again during your visit.
